Reed Brodsky is a partner in Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher's New York office. Mr. Brodsky is co-chair of Gibson Dunn's Litigation Practice Group and a member of the Crisis Management, Securities Enforcement and White Collar Defense and Investigations Groups. He is a nationally recognized trial lawyer and litigator best known for his success as lead trial counsel in two of the most high-profile white collar criminal cases in recent memory, United States v. Raj Rajaratnam in 2011, and United States v. Rajat Gupta in 2012. Since joining Gibson Dunn, Mr. Brodsky has been a lead trial attorney in four high-profile trials, representing Chevron Corporation in Chevron v. Donziger et al. in 2013, AlixPartners in AlixPartners v. Thompson et al. in 2014, AIG's Lavastone Capital unit in Lavastone Capital LLC v. Coventry First LLC et al. in 2015, and Patriarch Partners/Lynn Tilton in SEC v. Patriarch in 2016. Before joining Gibson Dunn, Mr. Brodsky spent eight years serving as an Assistant United States Attorney in the United States Attorney's Office for the Southern District of New York, where he won all seven of his white collar criminal trials and many non-white collar trials.

Mr. Brodsky's areas of practice include trial work, white collar crime, securities enforcement proceedings, corporate internal investigations, compliance counseling and complex civil litigation. Mr. Brodsky has extensive experience representing institutions, hedge funds, issuers of securities, board committees and individuals in connection with investigations, litigation and SEC enforcement proceedings under the federal securities laws. Mr. Brodsky has counseled numerous hedge funds on securities trading and compliance matters.

Mr. Brodsky is a seasoned trial lawyer with an outstanding track record. He has been called a "tenacious" and "tireless" advocate by commentators, colleagues and adversaries alike. The New York Times described Mr. Brodsky as an "animated" "work horse" who "endear[s] himself to juries with impassioned, eloquent presentation." The Wall Street Journal noted Mr. Brodsky has a "legendary work ethic" and "string of victories." Reuters described Mr. Brodsky as "a commanding presence in the courtroom" who impresses with his "blistering cross-examination." The New York Post said Mr. Brodsky is "known for winning ... and ferocity." And The New Yorker described him as an "ebullient and aggressive" "trial animal."

Mr. Brodsky has received national recognition and many awards for his achievements and litigation skills. His litigation practice includes commercial disputes, civil litigation, and white-collar and securities enforcement matters. The U.S. Legal 500 recognizes Mr. Brodsky as a leading lawyer in corporate investigations and white collar-criminal defense; he was a leading lawyer on two separate litigation teams that won Benchmark Awards for high-profile commercial litigation matters; and was a Benchmark finalist as one of the top securities lawyers in the country. Mr. Brodsky is ranked among the top white collar litigators in New York by Chambers USA: America's Leading Lawyers for Business, describing him as "a superstar" who "puts the fear of God into anyone he is opposite" and "you want in your corner when you're stepping into the ring" with his "pragmatic and

Recent Significant Engagements Include:

- In 2016, Mr. Brodsky was one of the lead trial lawyers representing Patriarch Partners and Lynn Tilton in a three-week trial against the Securities Exchange Commission over fraud charges relating to the management of distressed debt CLO funds.
- In 2015, Mr. Brodsky was one of the lead trial lawyers representing an AIG affiliate (Lavastone) in a 25-day trial in the SDNY, bringing a $1 billion RICO, breach of contract, fraud, breach of fiduciary duty, and unjust enrichment case against defendants for purchasing life insurance policies, laundering them through a shell company, and then selling them to Lavastone at inflated prices.
- In 2014, Mr. Brodsky was one of the lead trial lawyers representing AlixPartners in a high-profile theft of trade secrets and breach of contract case against two departing executives related to their wrongful taking of AlixPartners trade secrets and confidential documents. Mr. Brodsky tried the case in the Delaware Chancery Court.
- In 2013, Mr. Brodsky was one of the lead trial lawyers representing Chevron in a successful two-month RICO and civil fraud trial. Mr. Brodsky tried the case in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York. After the trial, the District Court issued a nearly 500-page opinion and order granting Chevron's application to bar the defendants from enforcing a fraudulently obtained $9 billion judgment in Ecuador.
- Represents certain corporations, executives, and other individuals in multiple unrelated ongoing criminal investigations and/or prosecutions by the United States Department of Justice.
- Represents certain corporations, asset managers, executives, and other individuals in multiple unrelated ongoing investigations by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission.

Prior to joining Gibson Dunn, from 2004 to 2013, Mr. Brodsky served as an Assistant United States Attorney in the United States Attorney's Office for the Southern District of New York. During 6 of his eight years, Mr. Brodsky was a member of the Securities and Commodities Fraud Task Force and investigated and prosecuted a wide range of fraud including insider trading, accounting fraud, investment adviser fraud, commodities fraud, options backdating, market manipulation, broker bribery, hedge fund frauds, and Ponzi schemes; mail/wire fraud; money laundering; and obstruction. Mr. Brodsky also coordinated parallel civil proceedings with the SEC, bankruptcy trustees, and court-appointed receivers, and he litigated criminal forfeiture proceedings. He is a leading national expert on insider trading investigations after successfully prosecuting more than 50 individuals for insider trading crimes; using wiretaps in an insider trading trial for the first time in U.S. history; prosecuting the first matchmaking insider trading case in U.S. history; and authoring the first federal wiretaps on a conference line in U.S. history.

From 1998 to 2004, Mr. Brodsky practiced as a litigator in the Washington, D.C. office of two major international law firms where he specialized in corporate investigations, white collar defense and SEC enforcement matters. During that period, Mr. Brodsky represented the Special Investigative Committee of the Board of Directors of Enron in an internal investigation relating to transactions between Enron and its former CFO's partnerships. In addition, Mr. Brodsky represented the Special Investigative Committee of the Board of Directors of WorldCom in an internal investigation of the fraudulent capitalization of line costs and improper revenue adjustments by former executives.

Mr. Brodsky graduated in 1995 from Vanderbilt University School of Law where he was a member of the Honor Council and an editor of the Vanderbilt Journal of International Law. He received his Bachelor of Arts magna cum laude from Duke University in 1991. After graduation, he served as a law clerk for United States District Court Judge Hector M. Laffitte, in the District Court of Puerto Rico.

Mr. Brodsky is admitted to practice in the Southern District of New York and Eastern District of New York.
