of Foreign Asset Control (OFAC), the U.K. National Crime Agency, HM Revenue Commissioners (and its forerunner agencies) and the Financial Conduct Authority.

Prior to joining the SFO he was partner and head of the Professional and Financial Regulation Unit in a specialist criminal defence practice in London. As a criminal defence lawyer for almost 15 years, Sacha successfully defended numerous fraud, money laundering and tax evasion trials and other serious and complex organised crime.

During his time at the SFO he was involved in a number of ground breaking cases, including:

- Leading the SFO's then largest ever single investigation consisting of a multi-disciplinary team of over 70 lawyers, investigators, and accountants and engaged with numerous international law enforcement agencies including the USDOJ. The corporate aspect of this investigation was concluded by way of a DPA in January 2017, with what was then the largest ever penalty outside of the USA and was the U.K.'s first tripartite global enforcement;
- Successfully prosecuting the first U.K. DPA, also the first resolution of charges under the transformative new offence in the Bribery Act of corporate failure to prevent bribery, which included extensive engagement with USDOJ, SEC and Financial Conduct Authority on regulatory and AML matters;

A series of other innovative achievements as the Investigative Lawyer or Prosecutor include:

- Central involvement in each of the U.K.'s simultaneous global corporate corruption resolutions whether by prosecution, civil asset recovery or DPA;
- Prosecution of both the first individual and the first multinational company in the U.K. for overseas corruption (which included engagement with USDOJ, SEC and OFAC);
- Prosecuting successfully the U.K.'s first contested overseas corruption case; and
- Deploying the first SFO co-operating offender.

Sacha has worked both independently and in collaboration with the USDOJ in directing the scope and methodology of independent monitoring and compliance remediation imposed as part of bilateral global settlements. In this context he has received reports, assessed companies' remediation and ultimately signed off successful completions. Sacha has experience of leading teams that have assessed compliance programmes in particular testing adequacy and implementation in the context of the Bribery Act.

Sacha's extensive experience of investigating and prosecuting global white collar crime means that he has regularly worked with overseas law enforcement agencies on nearly every continent as a method of securing overseas evidence. As such Sacha is able to counsel clients on the use by U.K. enforcers of foreign evidence or intelligence gathering avenues assessing consequent risks in individual cases.

Other achievements include:

- Sacha was appointed to lead the SFO's engagement in the cross governmental working group which devised the DPA legislative framework, and subsequently appointed to draft the DPA Code of Practice – the primary document setting out how prosecutors will operate the DPA regime.
- Sacha has fulfilled a series of high-profile speaking engagements on behalf of the SFO on corporate investigations, settlements, DPAs and asset recovery, both domestically and internationally, to high-level audiences including the USDOJ, OECD and the United Nations.
- Sacha led the team awarded as Prosecution Team of the Year by the Attorney General of England and Wales, 23 November 2016 in recognition of its work
