Heather L. Richardson is a litigation partner in Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher's Los Angeles office. Her practice focuses on health care, insurance, and class action matters. She has extensive experience in state and federal court at both the trial and appellate level, as well as in both domestic and international arbitrations.

Heather has represented health plans and plan sponsors in a variety of lawsuits, arbitrations, and government inquiries on a wide range of issues including reimbursement policy, coverage determinations, quality of care, pharmacy benefits, and provider contracting.

Representative Matters

- Securing a $37.4 million jury verdict against a group of surgery centers found liable for fraud, interference with contract, and unjust enrichment.
- Defeating certification of a putative class of members who were denied coverage for behavioral health care they received at residential treatment centers and who challenged the health plan's medical necessity determinations.
- Obtaining the complete dismissal with prejudice of a mass action brought by a group of surgery centers challenging facility reimbursement rates against a health plan and hundreds of its plan sponsors.
- Representing a managed care organization in a class action challenging the termination of network contracts with physicians, in which plaintiffs alleged causes of action for violation of the Lanham Act and California's Unfair Competition Law (Cal Bus. & Profs. Code § 17200 et seq).
- Securing complete dismissal of plaintiffs' claims against a managed care organization for wrongful death and denial of benefits, and ultimately the dismissal of the case in its entirety at summary judgment, in a highly-publicized lawsuit in which Plaintiffs alleged that a managed care organization caused the death of their daughter by denying coverage for a liver transplant.
- Serving as national coordinating counsel for contract disputes between health plans and providers arising out of the 2013 Executive Order sequestering Medicare payments.
- Securing complete victory for client in a confidential legal malpractice international arbitration.
- Representing a hospital system in multiple putative class actions in which plaintiffs assert claims for breach of privacy and a novel class theory for claims arising under California's Confidentiality of Medical Information Act.
- In an antitrust suit brought by a putative class of purchasers of pulse oximetry products, defeating class certification and winning summary judgment.
